

MOSES HAD WORK TO DO

Words by Clark Saunders

Music by Craig Cassils

Referring to episodes from the life of Moses, this song recalls the crucial role to which God called him.

Moses in a basket,
floating on the water
soon will find himself
at home with Pharaoh's daughter.
God will surely see him through;
God has work for him to do.

Moses in the desert
sees a bush is burning.
Then a voice is heard,
and Moses now is learning
God has work for him to do;
God will surely see him through.

Moses in the palace,
"Pharaoh," he says boldly,
"Let my people go."
Though Pharaoh answers coldly,
Moses will his work pursue.
God will surely see him through.

Moses at the seashore leads the people onward.
They will soon be free,
inspired by his strong word.
God will surely see them through:
Moses and the people, too.

Moses on the mountain,
there the Law receiving.
Then the people hear those holy words, believing God will guide and see them through, showing them what they should do.

And
God has work for us to do;
God will surely see us through.
